

CONTENTS

The author	10
Foreword by Don Riley	11
Introduction	16
Acknowledgements	19
Summary	20
List of tables, figures and boxes	22
1 Of leakages and losses	25
The making of a contradiction	25
Unbalanced books	29
Postponing the future	32
The doctrine of market failure	38
2 The dis-integrated economy	45
The planning and policy nexus	45
Surrogate signals	51
Whose money is it anyway?	56
The rent barometer	60
3 Free trains or free riders?	64
Reichmann's windfall train	64
Turf wars	69
Dividing the spoils	76

The free riders	78
4 Far Eastern promises	83
Infrascapes	83
Hong Kong: a colonial legacy	87
Singapore: bidding for space	94
Japan: shopping for efficiency	97
5 The rent-optimising goal	106
The dynamics of location	106
'A peculiar tax'	111
All roads lead to Rome	115
Markets as society's mediator	118
6 The culture of statism	122
Counter-factual history	122
The Stockton and Darlington Railway	124
The transport confidence trick	128
Rolling back the state	132
7 The politics of economics	135
Highways: waste not, want not	135
Airways: appropriating the skies	139
The corruption of enterprise	144
Pricing amenities in social spaces	151
8 Accounting for democratic governance	155
The First Law of Social Dynamics	155
Paying for benefits received	161

---

Accounting for leakages and losses	164
Retiring the bad taxes	169
References	176
About the IEA	186