As president of the Henry George School of Social Science, John C. Lincoln, who passed away at the age of 92, in Phoenix, Arizona, was our leader in more ways than one. He contributed generously, he thought clearly, he lived simply, he dealt with things directly and sensibly — and he was an inspiration to all who adhered to the principles which inspired him. At a special meeting in memory of Mr. Lincoln on May 25th, the trustees issued the following statement signed by the secretary, Lancaster M. Greene:

The Board of Trustees of the Henry George School of Social Science records with profound regret and sorrow, the passing on May 24, 1959 of its esteemed and beloved president, John Cromwell Lincoln. His dedication to the welfare of this school and to the ideas and philosophy of Henry George will be forever remembered. The Henry George School is a living and lasting memorial to his outstanding efforts to spread the knowledge and understanding of freedom and justice for all mankind.
