“The demand of the people of San Francisco is that the government of the city be placed in the hands of honest and efficient men who do not stand for party politics, corrupt motives, personal ambitions or selfish interests, but who do stand for all the people. The moral demand of the people of San Francisco is that the work of cleansing the city of its stain of corruption proceed.

“The demand of the people of San Francisco is that business confidence shall be restored to their great city by the election of men who stand before the city and the world acknowledged to be free from self-seeking, and whose motives are not open to doubt.
