

EDWARD J. DODSON
202 Horse Shoe Court
Cherry Hill, NJ 08034

August 4, 1988

Robert V. Andelson
Professor of Philosophy
Auburn University
534 Cary Drive
Auburn, AL 36830

Dear Bob,

Upon my return home from Atlanta I found the enclosed letter from Professor Heath of Birmingham-Southern College, to whom I had written concerning his recent paper on justice theory that appeared in the American Journal. I thought you might find our exchange of some interest.

In my own graduate work I have struggled to raise with various professors the legitimacy of our 'natural rights' approach to justice. The enclosed paper on privacy rights is a recent effort written for a course on civil liberties and the U.S. Constitution and came out of a series of discussions surrounding the positions argued by Judge Bork. I would be very interested to have your reaction to how I have developed the framework for debate.

I enjoyed meeting both you and your wife and will be looking forward to the publication of your treatment of liberation theology. If available, I'd also like to obtain a copy of your previously published book, "Imputed Rights." Is it still inprint, or might you have an extra copy I could purchase?

Best personal regards.

Sincerely,

