

BOOK I.

THE HISTORY OF LAND TENURE IN ENGLAND

AS GIVEN BY "ONE OF THE COMMUNITY."

INDEX.

CHAPTER	PARAGRAPHS
I.—INTRODUCTION . . . . .	1 to 7
II.—THE PRÆ-FEUDAL PERIOD . . . . .	8 — 12
III.—THE FEUDAL PERIOD . . . . .	13 — 60
Section i. Theory of the Feudal system	13 — 17
„ ii. Common rights under the Feudal system . . . . .	18 — 25
„ iii. Encroachments and Enclo- sures . . . . .	26 — 31
„ iv. Policy of the great land- owners . . . . .	32 — 37
„ v. Chronological outline of legislation . . . . .	38 — 50
„ vi. Results of the system to the Commoners . . . . .	51 — 60
IV.—THE POST-FEUDAL PERIOD . . . . .	61 — 84
Section i. Changed policy of great landowners . . . . .	61 — 66
„ ii. System of Family settle- ments . . . . .	67 — 68

CHAPTER	PARAGRAPHS
Section iii. Absorption of small estates	69 — 71
„ iv. Enclosure Acts . . . .	72 — 77
„ v. Why permitted . . . .	78 — 80
„ vi. Awakening of the public mind . . . .	81 — 84
V.—THE FUTURE OF LAND TENURE IN ENGLAND . . . .	85 — 99
Section i. Mistaken conceptions .	85 — 89
„ ii. Economic teachings . . .	90 — 94
„ iii. The problem to be solved	95 — 98
„ iv. Our present position and attitude . . . .	99
VI.—THE ALLEGORY . . . .	100 — 112

BOOK II.

ON COMPENSATION.

IN REFERENCE TO THE PROPOSED RESUMPTION OF LAND BY THE COMMUNITY.

To whom should compensation be given?
From whom is it due?

INDEX.

CHAPTER	PARAGRAPHS
I.—INTRODUCTION — FUNDAMENTAL PRINCIPLES . . . .	113—126
II.—AXIOMS AND ASSUMPTIONS IN REFERENCE TO LAND . . .	127—129
III.—HOW ARE THE RIGHTS OF THE COMMUNITY INFRINGED UPON AT PRESENT? . . . .	130—139

CHAPTER	PARAGRAPHS
IV.—HOW MAY THE RIGHTS OF THE COMMUNITY BE RE-ASSERTED AND SECURED? . . . . .	140—150
V.—SOME WORDS AND DEFINITIONS	151—168
VI.—THE COMMUNITY AND ITS WANTS	169—177
VII.—THE DISTRIBUTION OF THE COMMUNITY FUND . . . . .	178—183
VIII.—THE DISPOSAL OF THE NATIONAL APPORTIONMENT . . . . .	184—196
IX.—THE DISPOSAL OF THE APPOR- TIONMENT FOR THE LOCAL COMMUNITIES . . . . .	197—211
X.—HOW MAY THE CHANGE BE EFFECTED? . . . . .	212—220
XI.—THE PRESERVATION AND RE- ADAPTATION OF THE EXISTING PROVISIONS FOR COMMUNAL WANTS . . . . .	221—236
XII.—BENEFICIAL SOCIAL EFFECTS TO BE PRODUCED BY THE CHANGE	237—238
Section i. Opening up of the land to cultivators and occupiers	238—245
„ ii. The elimination and con- version of undesirable elements in the three classes of Landholders (247), Capitalists (248— 253) and Labourers (254 —275) . . . . .	246—275

CHAPTER	PARAGRAPHS
Section iii. The diminution and prospective abolition of all taxes on personal property	276—285
„ iv. The diminution and gradual abolition of involuntary poverty. . . . .	286—288
XIII.—WHO MIGHT BE INJURED BY THE CHANGE . . . .	289—308
XIV.—WHO SHOULD BE HELD MORALLY RESPONSIBLE TO PROVIDE COMPENSATION, IF NEEDED	309—328

---

BOOK III.

STATISTICS.